PRESIDENT WOODROW WILSON

COPYRIGHT BY CLUNDS

IN REVERENT TRIBUTE to the memories of the warriors of Tippecanoe County who made the supreme sacrifice on the fields of honor, paying the blood price that their country's righteous cause may triumph; in honor of the brave soldiers and sailors who rallied to the call and went forth willingly and eager to offer their lives in the preservation of American liberty and the eloquent traditions of this nation; in homage to the young women who braved the perils of land and sea to nurse and care for the wounded; in respect to every man, woman and child of this community who never faltered for an instant during the trying moments of the war or hesitated in response to the demands of the government and of humanity, the sponsors for this volume, in the brilliant triumph of victorious peace, dedicate this earnest effort.

For Floods District The French government has decided to flood the district of the Somme. This is a strategic move to prevent the Germans from advancing. The flooding will be done by opening the sluices of the Somme river. This will create a large area of water that will make it difficult for the Germans to move their troops and supplies.

Our Liberty Founded Upon Our Liberality

Every patriot of Tippecanoe county wanted his country, under the protection of whose flag he and his family lived, to be successful in the war against William Hohenzollern and his autocratic titled and military aides. There was not a man or woman among us who did not believe that this nation was right in declaring war. We knew that Germany designedly made war upon us. If we did not win we knew that we would have had millions of dollars of indemnity to pay. And we also were aware that we would have lost our free government, which cost so many lives and such great treasure. Thus it was that every citizen of sturdy old Tippecanoe awakened to the true situation and the necessity of victory. It was not a matter of seeing how few men they could send to the front, how much they could save and how little they might do, but distinctly one of responding heart and soul to the calls for manpower and the subsequent appeals for funds to back the boys we sent to the trenches to fight for us. During the recent war it is estimated that Tippecanoe county sent in the neighborhood of two thousand men to the colors, and a great number of these saw actual service in France. Some of them were volunteers, some were selected men but all were young Americans bent on one purpose—victory. And it took money to arm and support and equip such a valiant army and Tippecanoe county, knowing this, responded whenever the call was made. It fulfilled the needs of the Red Cross; it lent such money to Uncle Sam as he saw fit to solicit and it did these things willingly and generously. So it was that the patriots of Tippecanoe county realized fully and understandingly that their present liberty was founded on liberality. May it ever continue so.

A day never to be forgotten in the war annals of Tippecanoe county was September 5, 1917, when the first sixteen selected men of the great draft army Uncle Sam was in the process of raising, left LaFayette amid tears and cheers of kinsmen and friends. Every man of the sixteen, though a conscript, also was a volunteer as the local conscription board had received instructions to accept volunteers from the lists of drafted men to comprise the first contingent to leave this county and become a part of the national army. The men were accorded an enthusiastic ovation upon their departure, and once again, with the drafting of civilians for military duty, was the seriousness of the great war brought home to LaFayette in all its grim reality. The select sixteen all went to Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky., and hardly had a month passed before they were full-fledged soldiers with a bearing and distinction in marked contrast to what they were on the day of their entrainment.

. . . Tippecanoe County =: Its Work at Home . . .

All could not join the colors--the part played by those who stayed at home in supporting the men in service is of lasting glory. Here, briefly, is given a history of what Tippecanoe County did through its various war organizations

WHEN WOODROW WILSON, president of these United States, asked congress to declare a state of war existing between this country and Germany, Tippecanoe county, inspired by undaunted patriotism, rallied its powerful forces and speedily took the first ranks among those communities which stood ready to exalt Liberty and democracy and shatter to bits the menacing power of Hun autocracy. From the time when was fired the first ominous shot, which later was to be heard around the world, Tippecanoe county, at first stunned and horrified over the tremendousness of the bloody conflict, rapidly recovered its equilibrium and, hastily taking stock of its resources, responded in abundance to the frantic calls for food and clothing from the stricken nations. Then when the people here found themselves not onlookers but participants in the world struggle, there were no sacrifices too great, no burdens too heavy in the gigantic task of upholding the traditions of the warriors of the American revolution. Hastily taking stock of its resources, the county of Tippecanoe found itself in the war heart and soul. Mothers, concealing their heart-aches behind smiles, generously sent forth the man-power to battle a foreign foe; the money resources of the community were speedily mobilized and made available and a great volunteer army of men, women and children arose over night eager and prepared to give every support to the government in its successful prosecution of the war. While the men of younger years went gallantly forth to the European fields of honor in defense of Old Glory, those, prevented by age or circumstance from taking part in the wonderful adventure across the seas, united in a great home army which dedicated its best and supreme efforts in backing up the boys 'over there,' the heroic young warriors who offered themselves as the blood price that right and justice for the civilized world might triumph.

Civilian Relief

While enumerating the war activities of Tippecanoe county, one important service must not be overlooked--that of Civilian Relief. And the most valuable branch of this Civilian Relief, that which rendered the most service during the recent conflict, was the Home Service section. To this organization, the Tippecanoe county Red Cross gave the honor and distinction of looking after the welfare of families of soldiers. At the head of Civilian Relief in the city of Lafayette was Charles A. Burnett who, for well nigh two years, generously devoted much of his time and ability to this work. The Home Service section of Lafayette and West Lafayette was composed of a committee of twenty women, as follows: Mrs. Stanley Coulter, Mrs. C. H. Benjamin, Mrs. Otto Berry, Mrs. C. W. Bone, Mrs. Henry Brockenbrough, Mrs. William Chaffee, Mrs. W. J. Crouch, Mrs. John C. Dewenter, Mrs. Alfred C. Evens, Mrs. R. L. Jaques, Mrs. H. C. May, Mrs. William Perrin, Mrs. Charles Parker, Mrs. Max Pottlitzer, Mrs.

Edgar D. Randolph, Mrs. R. H. Shook, Mrs. W. E. Stone, Mrs. Aaron Wallace, Miss Elizabeth Beach and Miss Anne Ellsworth. In cooperation with the city Home Service section were the Red Cross chairmen of the townships of Tippecanoe county comprising: Mrs. Joseph Defrees, Union township; Mrs. William Elliott, Stockwell; Mrs. T. J. Gwin, Pleasant Grove; Mrs. Hattie Irwin, West Point; Mrs. Myrtle Isley, Colburn; Mrs. Lafayette Jordan, Montmorenci; Mrs. W. F. Jackson, Hebron; Mrs. Amy Johnson, Salem; Mrs. Fred Johnson, Elston; Mrs. C. E. Holst, Gladens Corner; Mrs. J. D. Lindstrom, Romney; Mrs. Rainey McCoy, Spring Grove; Mrs. L. N. Miller, Jackson township; Mrs. Luella Peters, Dayton; Mrs. C. H. Peter, Monitor; Mrs. John Moore, Battle Ground; Mrs. George Stair, Buck Creek, and Mrs. Stella Wright, Clark's Hill.

To keep in touch with the families of the nearly two thousand men in the service of this county was a task of tremendous proportions, and in order to minimize the effort, a card catalogue of the names of the soldiers with the home addresses of their families was prepared. The city and county were divided into districts, over each of which one of the members of the committee had supervision. In this way was obtained information concerning the circumstances of every soldier's family in the county. Cards were printed containing all necessary information and handed to every soldier before he departed. An office was maintained to which relatives and friends of soldiers were urged to come for information and assistance of any kind. Many visits to families of men in khaki were made. The Tippecanoe county Red Cross provided the support of the local Home Service section. Every month an account of the expenses, with the necessary vouchers, was rendered to the executive committee of the Red Cross and at the same time a report of the number of families assisted and to whom financial aid was given, was forwarded to the Lake Division Red Cross headquarters at Cleveland, Ohio. The entire aim of the Home Service section was to befriend soldiers and their families, giving such timely advice and assistance as conditions made necessary. It was a worthy undertaking and admirably handled.

Battery C

The first organized military unit to represent Tippecanoe County upon the battlefields of France was Battery C, captained by William F. Taylor, who later was advanced to major. Battery C left LaFayette on Saturday, June 30, 1917, for Fort Benjamin Harrison, Indianapolis, and before many months had elapsed the sturdy young members of this crack local unit found themselves in the trenches as a part of the famous Rainbow Division, one of the most distinguished of the American military machines which brought the Huns to their knees. Before their departure, the soldiers had been quartered in this city and they awaited the call eagerly. No sooner was it received, than the work of loading the guns and equipment of the artillery was begun. On the morning of Saturday, June 30, 1917, the battery was escorted from the crude armory on Third Street to the Big Four station by a platoon of police, and the boys made the trip to Indianapolis on a special train consisting of two box cars, five flat cars, two horse cars, one baggage car and four steel coaches. The battery had expected to be stationed during the summer at Camp Shelby, Hattiesburg, Miss., but the unit was signally honored by being selected to serve with the troops which were to be sent early in the war to crush German autocracy. Prior to sailing, the battery was quarterly at Camp Mills, Mineola, Long Island.

On October 18, 1917, Battery C sailed from Hoboken. It was at Luneville on the Lorraine front from February 17, 1918, until March 30 of the same year. On June 30 it reached Vadenay on the Champagne front. From that date until July 21, Battery C and other units of the famous Rainbow warriors comprised the only American division east of the Rheims. Next it moved to west of Chateau Thierry and pursued the retreating Germans in the historic drive of that sector, moving its headquarters to Trugny and later to Beauvarden. After reaching almost to Fismes, on the Vesle river, the Rainbow division was relieved and withdrawn, the artillery, however, being attached to the relieving division and accompanying it to the Vesle.

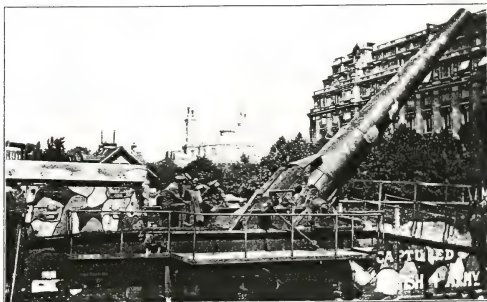

The main division went to Bourmont August 17, 1918, then to Chatenois on August 30 and on September 5 it moved to Toul and on September 10 left for Ansaerville. After the St. Mihiel victory, it moved first to Essy and then to the Bois de Pannes, where it remained until October 1, 1918. After several movements it took part, starting November 3, 1918, in the drive on Sedan. On November 14, 1918, three days after the signing of the armistice, Battery C and other units of the Rainbow Division, started toward the Rhine as a part of the Army of Occupation.

It is estimated that starting with February, 1918, when Battery C first went into the trenches, out of 224 days, it was engaged with the enemy 180 days and spent most of the remainder of the time moving from one area to another. The Rainbow Division is credited with having taken prisoners from twenty-six different enemy divisions, including three Imperial guard divisions, and from twenty-two separate units.

Fate had it that Battery C and other units of the famous Rainbows were not to be without their final thrill on the homeward journey after being recalled from German soil. Following their embarkation at Brest on the huge liner Leviathan and shortly before the huge steamboat docked at Hoboken on the night of Friday, April 25, 1919, the transport with its precious cargo had an extremely narrow escape from disaster off the Grand Banks off Newfoundland on the preceding Tuesday morning. A stray mine, which would have sunk the giant vessel, missed the ship by only thirty feet. Her officers saw the mine and officially reported the incident.

Battery C and related units made a triumphant entry into the United States harbor. From far out beyond Bartholdi's majestic Goddess of Liberty to the stretching piers of Hoboken, there was a continuous ovation from the warriors' kin folks and friends who rode in small boats that played about the transport as it slowly moved up the Hudson with a swelling tide to the docking place on the Jersey side. The harbor was dotted with many welcome boats, including the yacht Manhattan on which were the members of the Indiana welcome committee and several of the mothers of the Hoosier heroes. There are simply no words to describe the fervor of the welcome accorded these fighting men. After the Leviathan tied up the soldiers began filing off and marched directly to conveyances and taken to camp. Battery C went to Camp Merritt, N. J., only a short distance from Hoboken. The men remained there for several days of procedure incident in the case of soldiers just returned from overseas and on May 7, 1919, Battery C and the other Rainbow units reached Indianapolis and participated in the gigantic state-wide celebration staged there. Then on to Camp Zachary Taylor, Louisville, Ky., for muster out and then the glorious return to LaFayette in striking contrast to the scene which marked their memorable departure almost two years before.

Conscription Board

It is doubtful if, in the entire country, the machinery of conscription had been operated more smoothly or with better system than in Tippecanoe County. Melvin P. Slayback, chairman; William W. Johnson, secretary, and Dr. C. V. Davisson, who later joined the colors and was succeeded by Dr. R. M. Campbell as examining physician, comprised the personnel of the county's draft trio and throughout the entire war and despite the fact that the Tippecanoe conscription officials handled and acted upon the cases of several thousands of men, registered for military service, there was scarcely a single note of dissatisfaction from an outside source regarding the decisions and recommendations of the draft board. Prejudice, personal regard or other selfish considerations never in a single case entered into the findings and "Fairness to all, coupled with one hundred per cent service to the government," was ever the motto.

One of the significant things in connection with the operation of the military draft in Tippecanoe County, was the fact that the local board never ran up a huge expense account in putting conscription into effect, and while nearby counties submitted bills for several thousands of dollars, good old Tippecanoe's charges hardly ran into the hundreds and up to the time of the second registration were virtually nil. There are many reasons for this, important among which is the striking one that the Tippecanoe County board shouldered all of the responsibilities of the first draft on its own account and never called for outside help, except for incidental service. Besides this, it is known for a certainty that some expense actually was met out of the pockets of the individual board members and it is impossible to believe that the government has been served better in any part of the country.

18,000 German Prisoners
The 150th Field Artillery, of which our Battery C was a unit, threw up a barrage for the advancing infantry. 18,000 Germans were caught by this murderous fire and captured. An aviator shows them in their prison camp. This picture was taken at an altitude of 2,000 feet.

The Tippecanoe County conscription officials also distinguished themselves for their notable cooperation with the draftees selected for the colors, and the young men always found a ready ear to any queries or protests they saw fit to make.

In the registration of June 5, 1917, 3,649 men made themselves available for military service, and to Ira P. Northrup, of LaFayette, Indiana, went the honor of being the holder of the historic 258, the first number to make its appearance at the national draft drawing in Washington. In the registration of September 12, 1918, an additional 4,965 men were added to the county's selective draft lists, a great army of eager Americans ranging in years from youth to middle age, but all united in the great purpose—the preservation of liberty.

Red Cross

One of Tippecanoe County's most vital war enterprises has been the Red Cross and the growth of this organization in membership and resources since its inception, November 12, 1915, was little short of phenomenal. Its membership at its first anniversary was 657; on November 1, 1917, it was 5,063; on January 1, 1918, it was 11,800 and steadily increased until the signing of the armistice. One person out of every four in the county was a Red Cross member and every township in the county had organized an auxiliary with one or more working units. In LaFayette there were three work shops; in West LaFayette two and in the townships sixteen, making a grand total of twenty-one. During the first year, 1915-16, a total of 19,540 articles were made; the second year, 1916-17, the number had increased to 69,342 and during the six months following, the number reached the astonishing total of 199,035 pieces.

Nothing speaks so eloquently of the work of the chapters and the leaders as the record of work actually accomplished. It tells its own story of the hundreds of earnest women working day after day and week after week at their self-appointed tasks. The organization and direction of this work called for a high degree of business ability in the purchase of supplies economically and in advance of the need for them; in keeping accurate records of the materials received and the finished products and in adjusting the work to meet the changing requirements.

Council of Defense

It is no idle boast to assert that the Tippecanoe County Council of Defense stands pre-eminent among the similar organizations throughout the state for the tremendous effort it gave in aiding the government program for the successful prosecution of the war. Among the first to be organized, it cooperated with and extended the scope of other organizations until it became an actual clearing house for systematizing and harmonizing the various war activities and a powerful agency for mobilizing the resources of the county and making them most effective. From an initial membership of seven, it developed into a vast working machine, with each of the thirteen townships in the county having a miniature defense council of its own and a representative in the parent organization. In a like manner, each war interest was represented so that the actual personnel numbered in the neighborhood of two hundred. It is impossible to list the multitudinous activities of the Tippecanoe County Council of Defense, so extensive have been their scope, but special mention can be made of the remarkable series of meetings it conducted which influenced patriotic sentiment even in the most remote portions of the county, making it the premier organization of its kind in the state. At the organization of the Council of Defense, J. O. Beck was made its chairman, which position he relinquished later; Thomas Bauer being his successor. On November 11, 1918, the date of the signing of the armistice, the officers of the council were as follows: Thomas Bauer, chairman; C. V. Peterson, successor to C. H. Leeson, secretary; R. B. Sample, treasurer; Mrs. Charles B. Stuart, chairman of women's work; J. T. Westfall, fuel administrator; O. W. Campbell, food administrator; Mrs. Charles Q. Erisman, vice-chairman War Savings Stamp committee; William V. Stuart, chairman of building committee, and Otis Crané, county agent. The executive committee comprised Charles M. Murdock, Henry W. Marshall, Sr., Ralph Mayerstein, James Rae, John Wagner, Henry B. Overesch, William C. Mitchell and Thomas J. Kemple. The township delegates were J. D. Shriver, Harry C. Leaming, Ira G. Meharry, M. E. Sherry, Miss Flora Lutz, Rainey McCoy, Dr. W. S. Nesvitt, Edward Reynolds, John C. Eckhart, H. A. Miller, O. E. Throckmorton, Milton Sammons and M. E. Mackey.

Appeal Agent

George D. Parks, a prominent attorney of LaFayette, was appointed government appeal agent for Tippecanoe County, succeeding Dr. J. C. Webster, who died before being enabled to render any considerable amount of service. Mr. Parks, a lawyer by profession, received four years' military instruction at the University of Maine, from where he was graduated in 1876. His duties as government appeal agent in the operation of the selective draft were to take appeals for the United States to the district board where, in his opinion, necessary; to care for interests of ignorant registrants and inform them of their rights; where interests of justice required, to suggest re-opening any case already passed upon; to investigate all cases referred to him by local or district boards and to receive information from any person having knowledge of facts. The preparation of questionnaires by the registrants, the classification of registrants, appeals, etc., brought to Mr. Parks a large amount of work and investigation which he handled faithfully and well, consuming fully one-half of his office hours in this work, which was of utmost importance to the government and registrants. The government appeal agent served without compensation.

Women's Organization

The achievements of the women patriots of Tippecanoe County during the recent war were tremendous. Not only did mothers, with unassumed fervor and enthusiasm, offer their sons to make the supreme sacrifice that world liberty might triumph; not only did wives, sisters and sweethearts bid their men folks Godspeed and send them forth whole-heartedly to crush Hun autocracy, which was menacing the civilization of the world, but they united among themselves that the boys "over there" might be kept fit. No women of any community were more keenly alive to demands than those of good old Tippecanoe. Mrs. Charles B. Stuart, chairman of the woman's section of the county council of defense, was one of the busiest women in the state as she gave her time and ability unstintedly to women's work. To correlate women's work, the women's committee was created by the council of national defense and this committee became a direct and speedy channel between the government and the women of the United States. Not a woman in its office received a penny of salary.

Mrs. Stuart had splendid cooperation in the chairmen of the various committees into which the work was systematically divided in our county. The women of Tippecanoe became an organized unit in war work. Whether it was food conservation or demonstration, registration, thrift work, Liberty Loan drives or Red Cross and Canteen service, dependable women went forth to do more than their bit. The fact that women's subscriptions in the Liberty Loan campaigns were not only prompt but "overtopped;" the fact that our women eagerly sought the registration places to line up for Uncle Sam in the great war census; the fact that Tippecanoe County, boasting, in the person of Mrs. F. William Greve, Jr., the only woman chairman of a War Savings Stamp committee in the country, went "over the top" in actual cash subscriptions; the fact that women faithfully and conscientiously conserved food, all reveal the wonderful interest and loyalty of the womanhood of Tippecanoe County.

It is to the women that thanks are due because virtually every boy who left Tippecanoe County for war camps went forth supplied with two pairs of socks, knitted by the women of the county and made hastily available for distribution. Even the women of the Soldiers' Home supplied their quota in this worthy undertaking. It is to the women that thanks are due for boys in khaki passing through the city on troop trains being supplied with magazines and "smokes." Interest in the Red Cross work and its stupendous service in the war zone, stimulated our women to a supreme effort and dressings, garments and knitted articles went forth by the thousands upon their missions of mercy. No more inspiring sight in war service could be seen than in the work rooms of the local Red Cross. And in multitudinous other ways did the women serve, through such worthy organizations as the War Mothers and Civilian Relief, which especially devoted its efforts to aiding the dependents of soldiers who had gone forth in defense of their country.

And even the children, through the Junior Red Cross, had an opportunity to serve which they did in a most enthusiastic and patriotic way, furnishing the money to purchase their supplies. The organization of this juvenile branch of Red Cross work was a far-seeing wisdom on the part of our government and the Junior Red

YANKS IN THE ST. MIHIEL SALIENT

A remarkable photograph of streams of American soldiers pouring into the St. Mihiel salient with continuous pressure on the retreating Germans. In the background may be seen the famous Mont Sec, strongly fortified by the Germans but captured by the Americans in the course of the first day of the assault. The soldiers in the foreground are machine gunners; their column is crossing the route of a supply train.

Cross units in our LaFayette schools were powers that spoke for themselves. It seemed as if the women, guided by providential inspiration, had been preparing for the hour of emergency, for in a few places elsewhere had this organization been carried to a higher degree of efficiency than among the women of Tippecanoe County who made themselves an irresistible, cooperative force behind the government in its successful prosecution of the war.

An important center for activity in Tippecanoe County during the recent war and one about which very little has been said was the French-Belgian relief work shop in the Fowler hotel building, LaFayette, Ind. Originated by the Tri Mu Bible Class of Trinity M. E. Church, the work was extended so that a score or more women engaged daily in remaking such discarded garments as were donated, patching and sewing buttons on clothes which otherwise were serviceable and making a considerable amount of new material, such as gowns and shirts. A visit to this little shop provided quite a lesson in industry. Sewing machines hummed merrily in their patriotic task, needles and thimbles glistened and activity was at a high ebb. Numerous boxes, neatly packed and filled garments made over to look like new, were much in evidence, while elsewhere were to be seen piles of such clothes as were still to be worked upon and made fit. This French-Belgian relief work shop did a notable work and too much praise cannot be given to those women who devoted so much of their time and energy to the cause.

Motor Corps

The Tippecanoe County Red Cross Motor Corps was organized and began active service September 23, 1918, with twenty-six regular drivers, five auxiliary drivers and eight office members. Although the Motor Corps was practically the last of the numerous war activities to come into being, the hours, energies expended and value of service equalled any organization in the county. The medical department at Camp Purdue made severe demands upon the resources of the Motor Corps, the fearful epidemic of influenza taking heavy toll among the enlisted men and S. A. T. C. The military ambulance was in entire charge of women drivers who never failed to render prompt and efficient service. On one occasion, the very youngest driver was called away from an officers' ball and, hastily exchanging evening gown for Motor Corps uniform, made fifteen trips from Camp Purdue to St. Elizabeth hospital. Another afternoon and evening, during a storm of cold, sleety rain, ambulance and emergency drivers made forty trips from the camp to the hospital. Daily attendance was given the medical and quartermaster departments, the surgeon at Camp Purdue was called several times for operative work to the military camp at Crawfordsville and many calls, coming late at night, the Motor Corps furnished transportation, the drivers being on duty nearly all of the night. Being the only uniformed organization of women in Tippecanoe County, the Motor Corps formed an interesting and attractive part of the several parades and military demonstrations staged in LaFayette during the fall of 1918.

A thorough course in motor mechanics was given to a class of fourteen by Sergeant Ray B. Goss, instructor in auto mechanics at Camp Purdue. In the 13 weeks of active service, the Motor Corps responded to several hundred calls with a total of 3,861 miles and 598 hours. The equipment and running expenses of cars were maintained by individual owners. So effective and efficient was the service of the Motor Corps in canteen, Liberty Loan, civilian relief and community welfare work, that it is the plan of the Lake Division headquarters to make motor organizations a part of the permanent Red Cross policy.

The officers of the Tippecanoe County Red Cross Motor Corps follow: Captain, Mrs. Marshall E. Haywood; first lieutenant, Mrs. Jesse Charles Andrew; second lieutenant, Mrs. Ada Frey; sergeant, Company A, Miss Rena M. Rice; sergeant, Company B, Mrs. Cecil G. Fowler; drill sergeant, Miss Beatrice Jamison; ambulance drivers, Captain Haywood, Miss Catherine VanNatta, Miss Lillian Horat and Mrs. Blanche Ruffner; regular and emergency drivers, Lieut. Andrew, Lieut. Frey, Miss Martha Elizabeth Crouch, Miss Kate A. Creahan, Mrs. F. E. Follett, Mrs. Cecil G. Fowler, Mrs. T. J. Gwin, Mrs. C. R. Livenguth, Miss Lillian Horat, Miss Beatrice Jamison, Miss Rena Rice, Miss Louise Schlesselman, Mrs. Charles R. Milford, Miss Catherine VanNatta, Mrs. Elizabeth Vinnege, Miss Charlotte Wolever, Miss Alys Ankeny, Mrs. Allison E. Stuart, Miss Aletha Ray, Miss Dorothy Rice, Mrs. Charles Q. Erisman, Mrs. E. B. Ruschli, Mrs. Bennett Taylor, Mrs. Alvin C. Baker, Mrs. Blanche Ruffner.

AMERICAN ARMY OF OCCUPATION OFF TO GERMANY

After celebrating for a while the announcement that the armistice had been signed this American army looked once more upon the serious side of the Great War and with the same firm step but with lighter hearts started on the march for occupied territory in Germany. The American's dispatch rider at the right is inquiring of the French soldier where he can buy fireworks.

The office members: Mrs. Caroline D. Born, Mrs. George P. Haywood, Jr., Mrs. Charles W. Hickman, Mrs. J. L. Caldwell, Mrs. Charles A. Parker, Mrs. R. J. Plaistridge and Miss Mellie Timberlake.

The auxiliary drivers: Miss Martha Kelly, Miss Mary Reifers, Miss Ruth Whicker, Miss Marjorie Barr and Miss Edith Kern.

Purdue University

The real worth of Purdue University in the recent war emergency has been evidenced in a most remarkable and conclusive manner and the standing of the local university before the country at large has been demonstrated beyond a question. The military record of Purdue University begins with its birth, when President Lincoln signed the Morrill Act on July 2, 1862. War spirit was running high in those days, too, and the country was realizing, as it did during the recent great struggle, the lack of preparation for the defense of the nation against its enemies. It therefore was a very natural and logical thing that one of the prime requirements for the land grant colleges, established by Lincoln's act, should be compulsory instruction in military science and tactics. Thus, it was the United States government that gave Purdue its first opportunity to prepare itself in a military way and it was this same government that selected Purdue from among the educational institutions of the nation and made it, at the outbreak of the war, one of the first university military training camps in the country. And the honor came in a most simple and direct manner, through the merits of the school solely, through its remarkable record as an institution of learning and through the systematic and business-like nature of its affairs. The motor mechanics school, established for the duration of the war, brought hundreds of soldiers here. It necessitated the erection of mess halls, barracks and wash rooms. The beautiful new armory, just completed at a cost of $200,000, was used to house the men in training here. Members of the Purdue faculty hastened to take practical training in factories manufacturing motors, and experts were engaged to instruct the men. But not only in a strictly military way did Purdue coordinate its activities to serve the nation in its time of need. Scarcely had the president's call for the declaration of war been answered when the Governor of Indiana, alert to fundamental conditions, took steps to provide for food production and conservation in the state. In a few days after his calling together a public conference on this subject, the agricultural extension department of Purdue, under the leadership of Prof. George I. Christie, was officially assigned to this great task. Prof. Christie immediately organized meetings in every county of the state, presenting through its trained force of agricultural workers, definite programs for action, and the work was well under way to continue ceaselessly through all the following days and weeks to the glorious day of peace. This mere recital of the various ways in which the institution took a positive part in public war service, demonstrates not only the patriotic spirit which pervaded the university, but its actual capacity for doing the things needed. It is a noteworthy illustration of how an educational institution had to bear its burden of the war and of its tremendous responsibilities in keeping up the supply of trained men necessary to victory, with nothing permitted to swerve it from the accomplishment of this high duty to the nation.

Purdue Ambulance Corps

The Purdue Ambulance men were the first volunteer soldiers from LaFayette called to the colors before the national draft drawing at Washington and they left this city on June 23, 1917, just one year to the day after Battery C had entrained for the Mexican border. At that time the company was composed of sixty-four LaFayette and Purdue men, the original roster being as follows: A. L. Butterworth, R. C. Carter, F. B. Comingore, J. M. Donlin, A. S. Eldridge, J. P. Fisher, C. M. Flanders, James E. Gallagher, H. S. Grady, J. W. Green, W. W. Griffith, G. B. Holman, C. Horat, L. E. Horat, J. D. Horat, G. M. Jamison, J. S. Johnson, J. H. Keenan, H. G. Kerlin, L. J. Kinnard, L. T. Knight, R. L. McGrath, D. R. McKinley, R. W. McInstry, W. E. Miller, W. M. Ogborn, B. Osterday, R. G. Plank, C. E. Ritenour, J. M. Rynearson, R. F. Shewmaker, Charles W. Shook, A. Smith, Kenneth R. Snyder, G. H. Spaulding, A. Summers, R. A. VanDever, M. E. Reitzel, W. F. Sully, F. E. Cornett, J. M. Jenkins, A. R. Nally, R. S. Hancock, O. Reed, N. C. Hodges, A. C. Fuller, R. D. Snoddy, G. C. Peters, W. C. Airkenhead, H. T.

Pryor, M. R. Smith, J. H. Steward, A. H. Bass, M. F. Thompson, R. A. Gillespie, T. Prosser, J. Kiser, J. O. Moncrief, E. A. Mathieson, P. M. Foster, F. H. Stever, T. Smith, V. C. Trumpell, M. Goss, H. Smith, L. Weinberg, J. Wilson, G. McCarthy and I. I. Arnett. During the progress of the war a number of changes took place in the personnel of the corps. Several of the members resigned and entered the aviation and other army service, while others dropped out entirely and a few were made reserve officers. The departure of the men from this city was made amidst the tears and expressions of admiration of the many relatives and friends who gathered at the station to bid them Godspeed. It was the prevailing opinion at that time that the men would be sent abroad inside of thirty days, but it was the nature of events that the boys were to remain in Allentown for many months. Eventually two ambulance units were established with the Purdue corps as a nucleus, namely, Section 559, which saw distinguished service in Italy, and Section 598 which won equal distinction in France.

Robert L. McGrath, who died in the service of his country abroad, was the only LaFayette boy not to return with Section 559 and for this reason his loss was keenly felt by his family and friends. Section 559 arrived upon its return from the Italian front in April, 1919, on the royal Italian mail ship "Duca d' Abruzzi" and the unit was taken to Camp Dix, N. J., where several of the men received their honorable discharges, the majority, however, being mustered out at Camp Sherman, Chillicothe, Ohio, and arriving in LaFayette on May 7, 1919, the memorable day of the handing of the peace treaty to the Germans and the fourth anniversary of the wanton sinking of the Lusitania.

Section 559 has a war record to be proud of. For gallant work performed during the last days of the war, when the Austrians were forced back into Austria and compelled to sue for an armistice, every man in this section was awarded the Cross of Merit in War by the Italian government. The unit, which is known officially as Section 559, United States Ambulance Service, was with the first contingent of American troops to land in Italy. It was the only unit composed of Hoosiers which served on the Italian front. The other unit of the ambulance service recruited at Purdue at the same time in May, 1917, made a record on the French front, where it had been serving for a year and a half with the French army. This unit, known as

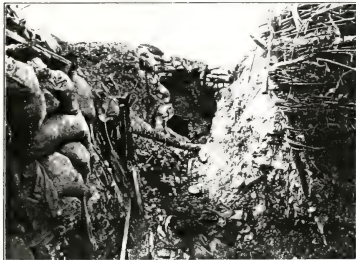

Section 598, was decorated with the Croix de Guerre and several members received high American decorations. Unit 559 was attached to the Eighth Italian army corps and followed this organization during the offensive, the Piave to Vittorio, where the Austrians made their last stand in the war. The work during the period of the offensive was very trying and dangerous.

After the armistice, section headquarters was established at Vittorio and the Hoosiers settled down to work with the Italian Army of Occupation in the Tyrolese and Cadore mountains. Vittorio is thirty miles north of the first Austrian lines established in 1915 and served throughout the war as Austrian army headquarters. The Hoosiers were billeted in a fine villa which had been occupied by General von Hindenburg in 1917 when he directed the big Austrian drive which forced the Italians to the Piave river. The city had throughout the war been the target of incessant Italian air raids and so one-half acre of the grounds surrounding the villa had been transformed into a huge series of concrete dugouts. The city also served as a rail head for the Austrian army. The nearest outpost held by the section while it was on duty with the Army of Occupation was sixty-five miles from Vittorio. Cars worked from this outpost to Cortina and Toblach, two cities located far in the occupied Austrian territory. During November and December the section was largely occupied with transporting Austrian wounded which had been left. Because of the absence of railroads in these mountains it was necessary to do all the work by automobile. The LaFayette boys were assigned to duty at a point where it was necessary to transport the wounded 160 miles over dangerous mountainous roads. These trips were anything but a pleasure when the winter set in. Often as much as six feet of snow had to be contended with. The Italian army used large snow sweepers to clear the roads.

Section 559 arrived on the Italian front August 15, 1918, and it was in the thick of it from that time until the armistice was signed. Before the big offensive in October the ambulance drivers evacuated first aid stations back of the trenches facing the Piave river. The following members of the section live in LaFayette: J. P. Fisher, K. R. Snyder, R. F. Shewmaker, J. S. Johnson, W. E. Miller, R. A. VanDevere, R. G. Bergman, A. F. Butterworth, F. B. Comingore, C. M. Flanders, H. S. Grady, W. W. Griffith, C. J. Horat, L. E. Horat, R. G. Plank, G. H. Spaulding, R. D. Swarts, J. M. Donlin and C. E. Ritenour. These men of Section 559 were all Purdue or LaFayette men. The remainder of the section was comprised of members from various other states.

Section 598, as a whole was awarded the French war cross, the Croix de Guerre, and twenty-five members of the section were decorated individually with the war cross, one with the Legion of Honor, and one with the Medaille Militaire and American Distinguished Service Cross.

The army corps citation was received by the section in September, 1918, and read as follows: "The American Sanitary Section No. 598, ably commanded by Lieut. Angrand and the American lieutenant, Battershell, brilliantly contributed, during the course of the recent offensive, to the relief of the wounded in zones that were subjected to the violent artillery fire of the enemy."

The recognized major battles in which Section 598 participated were the Somme defensive, March 21 to April 6, 1918; the Aisne defensive, from May 27 to June; the Champagne-Marne defensive, from July 15 to 18; the Aisne-Marne offensive, from July 18 to August 6, and the Oise-Aisne offensive, from August 18 to Nov. 11.

The twenty-five men decorated by the French government for distinguished service were Lieut. C. C. Battershell, two citations, Croix de Guerre; Lieut. Angrand, (French), three citations, Croix de Guerre and Legion of Honor; Sergt. Frederick W. Held, Sergt. Herman H. Schmitz, Sergt. Joseph F. Smollen, Corporal Frank A. Mahon; Privates Fred A. The roster of the section at the time of the signing of the armistice was as follows: Lieut. Clifford Hoy, Lieut. L. J. Foley, Lieut. C. C. Battershell, Lieut. C. C. Angrand; Sergeants F. W. Held, H. H. Schmitz, Joseph F. Smollen, Corp. F. A. Mahon and Privates William C. Aitkenhead, F. E. Cornet, R. S. Hancock, O. J. Moncrief, A. R. Nally, W. M. Naughton, G. H. Peters, M. R. Smith, R. D. Grand Total of Liberty Loan Subscriptions in Tippecanoe County -----			$10,497,450

The chairmen of the Tippecanoe County Liberty Loan campaigns were as follows: First and Second Liberty Loans, William G. Gude; Third and Fourth Loans, Thomas Bauer; Victory Loan, George P. Haywood, Sr.

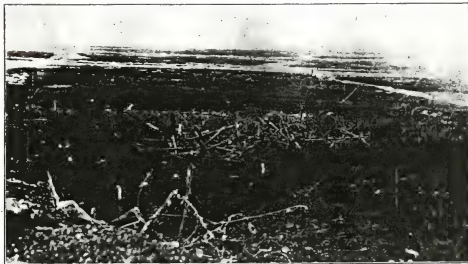

Publicity work in five campaigns by Milton Pottlitzer, city editor of the LaFayette Courier, who also was Publicity Director for the Victory Loan.

The tie that bound all Americans in the great "at home" sector of the battlefield, without which the great military machine of the civilized powers of the world could not have brought Germany to her knees in the victorious struggle just ended, was the Liberty Bond. This, coupled with the Liberty Bond of our allegiance across the seas, humbled the barbaric Hun and united America more closely with its noble allies, England, France, Belgium and Italy. In the purchase of Liberty Bonds, Tippecanoe County again came to the fore as it did in support of all other vital war agencies. Every patriotic member of the great stay-at-home army realized that every bond purchased decreased the power of the Prussian despots and increased the size of the morsel which eventually choked the monster of Kultur. With our heroic armies united abroad, the Liberty bond of dollars united at home and showered to their support. In the four great loan drives which were conducted during the progress of the war, and in the Victory Loan drive after the cessation of hostilities, Tippecanoe County subscribed for $10,497,450 worth of bonds, and this exclusive of the Thrift and War Savings Stamp effort, which brought in cash sales during the year 1918 in excess of $900,000, surpassing the quota allotted to this county. And these material responses, rather than injuring support to the worthy war activities such as the Red Cross, Knights of Columbus, Jewish Relief, Y. M. C. A., Salvation Army and other welfare and relief agencies, worked to stimulate interest in these welfare organizations so that subscriptions, voluntary and solicited, were little short of half a million dollars. No glowing words of commendation can do justice to the splendid service rendered the nation by Tippecanoe county, and not only does our country stand first and foremost in volunteers but the county's participation, on a per capita basis, both in furnishing men and means, represents a clean one hundred per cent performance of duty.

War Mothers and the Canteen Service of Tippecanoe County

By MRS. CHAS. W. BONE.

The organization of the War Mothers of Tippecanoe County was the outgrowth of a call in 1917 from the State Council of Defense for the war mothers in each county to organize and assist in bringing about the highest degree of food conservation. Mrs. Charles W. Bone was appointed War Mother of Tippecanoe County. Beginning with the work for food conservation, soon it was found that many avenues opened for war relief work. At Christmas time in 1917 two large boxes containing many knitted articles and one hundred and twenty-six individual boxes of candies, cakes, fruits, nuts, etc., each box daintily wrapped in white paper, tied with ribbon and fastened with cheery Christmas seals bore the name of a motherless soldier. The boxes were consigned to the 325th Field Artillery, then at Camp Taylor. The War Mothers having no fund the express expenses were defrayed by the West LaFayette Franchise League. The following letter of appreciation was received:

Headquarters 325th Field Artillery, Camp Zachary Taylor, Ky.

December 27, 1917.

Mrs. Charles W. Bone,

140 N. Grant St., West LaFayette, Ind.

My Dear Mrs. Bone:

The boxes containing Christmas gifts reached the regiment the day before Christmas, and I wish to express my most sincere thanks for the kindness and thoughtfulness of those who sent them.

The generosity and thoughtfulness of "the people back home" at this time has been very pleasing to those of us in the military service, and it is very comforting to feel that there are friends who are deeply interested in our comfort and welfare.

The knitted things were given to the men who drive our wagons and who must be out in all kinds of weather. They have had few such things and these gifts were most timely and will be thoroughly appreciated.

Will you kindly express to the ladies of West LaFayette, who worked with you, the thanks of the officers and men of the 325th Field Artillery, for their generosity?

With best wishes, I am, sincerely yours,

CHAS. M. BUNDEL,

Colonel, 325th Field Artillery.

In the Red Cross drive in May, 1918, twelve war mothers carrying an immense flag in the parade, collected the sum of more than $384.00 for the Red Cross. In June of the same year when thousands of troops were passing through the city, the War Mothers undertook to impart cheer and comfort and give some recognition of their services, but not being recognized by the government the work was restricted. No official information as to movement or needs of the troops could be obtained; however, arrangements were made whereby post cards, magazines, cigarettes and ice water were provided for thousands of men on their way "over there." To meet the expenses of this, the chairman obtained from friends in Los Angeles, where the idea of salvaging waste articles to secure Red Cross funds originated, details for conducting a salvage plant. The use of the Lane-Pyke Building on Main Street was donated, and a call was made for all discarded or waste articles that they might be converted into cash for carrying on this worthy work. The response was most generous and the project a success from the beginning. At the August, 1918, meeting a motion carried to devote our energies to the needs in our own country and continue our work as a local organization. The same month the national field agent of the Red Cross Canteen Service, Mrs. Baxter, of Washington, D. C., visited LaFayette for the purpose of establishing the canteen service here. Government rules required that all canteen work be under rules and regulations of the Red Cross. The War Mothers were honored by being offered this authorized service, and the chairman was appointed commandant and instructed to organize at once. At a called meeting on August 31st, the War Mothers voted to accept the offer and continue the salvage plant to support the work. Rooms were secured at 220 N. 5th Street. A canteen committee of six companies of fifteen members each was organized; the complete roster of officers as follows:

Mrs. Charles W. Bone, Commandant.

Mrs. Allison E. Stuart, 1st Vice Commandant.

Mrs. John Smith, 2nd Vice Commandant.

Co. A—Mrs. Bernhardt Born, Captain; Mrs. R. H. Shook and Miss Nellie Samson, Lieutenants.

Co. B—Mrs. O. Perry Lutz, Captain; Mrs. Frank Leslie and Mrs. M. Schultz, Lieutenants.

Co. C—Mrs. John E. Bixler, Captain; Mrs. William F. Taylor and Mrs. John C. Dewenter, Lieutenants.

Co. D—Mrs. Samuel E. Souders, Captain; Mrs. E. G. Proulx and Miss Maude Boswell, Lieutenants.

Co. E—Mrs. William Kelly, Captain; Mrs. C. Q. Erisman and Mrs. F. E. Follett, Lieutenants.

Co. F—Mrs. F. S. Crockett, Captain; Miss Irma Connell and Miss Juliet Mathews, Lieutenants.

Companies A and B were formed from the War Mothers and their assistants at the salvage plant and continued the work under the direction of their captains, Mrs. Born and Mrs. Lutz. Companies C, D, E and F, under direction of Captains Bixler, Souders, Kelley and Crockett, were divided into squads for train service and met all trains carrying soldiers, with fruits, cakes, candies, cards, coffee, doughnuts, ice cream, cigarettes, etc.

After the signing of the armistice, Capt. Lutz had full charge of the salvage plant and the work continued with a singleness of purpose by the entire committee to meet the needs of the canteen service till the last, whatever the time or demands might be. To this end the committee gave their strength and time without stint and without measure. Company D, Mrs. Souders captain, gave a benefit card party on the roof garden of the Hotel Fowler in February, 1919, clearing the handsome sum of $287.00 for the canteen fund. This was followed by Company C, Mrs. Bixler captain, giving an Easter market, which netted $80.00 for the fund. At the same time the work at the salvage plant increased splendidly. The local canteen was the only one in the state which was self-supporting and one of the only two in the entire Lake Division whose committee provided their own funds. Not only did the local canteen committee provide a most generous service but exceeded all others in that it has added to its laurels by paying from its funds the salary of a Home Service Secretary. Gave $100.00 to the general fund of the Red Cross and at the end of eight months had a balance of more than $1000.00.

Aside from their work for the canteen the War Mothers were "at home" Saturday of each week at the Hostess House for Camp Purdue, where a mending committee with Mrs. M. H. Kennedy, chairman, did the mending for the boys in camp. In the evening a committee of War Mothers chaperoned the dances. They also gave for relief work in camp the sum of $313.40 and to the United War Work $239.07.

When the Home-Coming parade for our returned heroes was being planned, the Tippecanoe County Mothers arranged for a magnificent float—"The Ship of State." On a large sail in gold letters were the words, "Saved by Our Boys," and fastened to the mast was an immense county service flag, 20 by 6 foot, containing 1850 stars, including forty-one gold stars for the men from Tippecanoe County who gave up their lives in the service. The flag contained forty-five rows of twenty-one stars each and forty-five rows of twenty stars each, and one row of five stars. This beautiful starry flag was the loving and painstaking work of Mrs. O. Perry Lutz, Secretary of Tippecanoe County War Mothers; Mrs. R. H. Shook, Treasurer, Mrs. Frank Schilling, Mrs. John Kensinger and Mrs. C. W. Bone. This emblem of honor was made to be presented to the county as a permanent memorial of its manhood's service.

War Mothers of America

By MRS. MOSES SCHULTZ

A temporary organization of the War Mothers in Tippecanoe County was formed in 1917. Mrs. Charles W. Bone was appointed War Mother, Mrs. M. H. Kennedy was elected secretary and Mrs. Henry T. Brockenbrough, treasurer. In order to collect funds for their work a salvage plant was established and successfully carried on under the leadership of Mrs. Bone, Mrs. Bernhardt Born, Mrs. George P. Haywood, Sr., the Red Cross Motor Corps, and many others.

After doing very effective work in meeting trains, serving refreshments, giving magazines, post cards, cigarettes, etc., and giving more than $500 to Camp Purdue and the United War Relief Work, in August, 1918, the salvage plant went under the direction of the Red Cross, in order to establish canteen service, the Red Cross being the only agency of the government allowed to serve the troop trains.

In January, 1919, the war being over and the armistice signed, some of the war mothers thought the time opportune to join a National organization, hence the formation of the Tippecanoe County Branch of the War Mothers of America. Mrs. Moses Schultz, having been recommended by Mrs. Charles B. Stuart, woman member of the State Council of Defense, was appointed War Mother of Tippecanoe County by Mrs. George P. Haywood, Sr., organizer of the tenth district. A meeting was called and the following officers were elected: President, Mrs. M. Schultz; first vice-president, Mrs. Henry A. Taylor; second vice-president, Mrs. Adam Wallace; recording secretary, Mrs. C. E. Thompson; corresponding secretary, Mrs. E. P. Ferguson; treasurer, Mrs. Walter J. Jones; historian, Mrs. Oscar D. Johnson. Its objects, as taken from the constitution and by-laws, are:

1. To extend helpful comfort and sympathy to the families of those in martial service of our country—on land, sea, or in the air.
2. To promote, encourage and coordinate, by effective action, the war work, war financing and war charity of mothers, wives, sisters and daughters of American soldiers.
3. To foster the ideals of American freedom and to aid in securing for all mankind the blessings of freedom and justice.
4. To encourage historical research as to the participation of the United States of America in the world war, the publication of its results and achievements, the preservation of documents and relics, the record and service of individual American soldiers, the promotion of patriotic celebrations and anniversaries commemorating the valor and sacrifices of such soldiers, together with the acquisition and protection of historical spots and the erection of such monuments as shall be deemed proper and meet the approval of the officials of the United States and allied governments.

The local War Mothers of America have been holding weekly sewings for Red Cross civilian relief at the Community House, and worked with the Women's Council of the State Chamber of Commerce in promoting a memorial for Tippecanoe County, and also conducted the Red Cross old clothes drive for the stricken peoples of the devastated countries of Europe. The organization will continue to assist in all kinds of patriotic service and above all will be supreme in its effort to promote Americanism.
